Course learning path

Learners move from the origins of the Code to its day-to-day application through clear instruction and practical ethical scenarios.

01 The Code: history & purpose

How the REALTOR® Code differs from license law and why professional standards matter.

02 Duties to clients & customers

Articles 1-9: loyalty, disclosure, compensation, and protecting client interests.

03 Duties to the public

Articles 10-14: equal service, truthful communication, and professional conduct.

04 Duties to REALTORS®

Articles 15-17: cooperation, professional statements, disputes, and arbitration.

05 Real-world ethical decisions

Scenarios that build confidence recognizing issues and applying the Code.

06 Enforcement & standards

Complaints, hearings, discipline, appeals, and the professional standards process.

Designed for convenient completion: secure online access, saved progress, knowledge checks, multi-device compatibility, and a downloadable certificate after successful completion.

About the requirement: NAR states that REALTORS® must complete ethics training every three years, with no less than 2 hours and 30 minutes of instructional time, and that training must meet its learning objectives and criteria. Requirements and course acceptance can vary; confirm your status and submission process with your local REALTOR® association.
